LEGO MANIA HITS THE HOLIDAYS!!

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

UP CLOSE & PERSONAL

Maniacs, scope out this page carefully! It's packed with groovy details about your favorite LEGO celebrities and clues to help you solve the mysterious contest on the back page!

The Royal King

Favorite game: Chess
 Favorite food: Oatmeal Pudding
 Favorite Movie: Robin Hood
 Favorite Headgear: His Shiny Crown

The royal ruler enjoys bombing around in his carriage and practicing his swordplay.

What does he like best about modern times? Snowboarding and TV. "There's a great mountain near Rudolph, Wisconsin, where you can grab some serious air and do extreme 'boarding tricks,'" says the king.

The king especially likes watching Castle Improvement on TV. "Not many people know how to fix a trapdoor like Hal and Jim," he says.

Becky Blastinoff

Favorite food: Freeze dried ice cream
 Favorite TV Show: Star Trek Voyager
 Favorite hobby: Stargazing
 Favorite Vehicle: Moon Dune Buggy

It's all systems go for this gung ho astronaut. What does Becky like best about being in space? "Zero gravity," she says. "I just have to remember to keep my arms tucked in when I sleep. Otherwise they float up and hit me in the face, waking me up."

Back on earth, Becky goes home to Evergreen, Alabama, where she's the champion "grabber" game player at the video arcade. "After plucking satellites out of space with the shuttle's 'Canadian arm,' I can grab one of those stuffed animals with my eyes closed."

Captain Redbeard's friends include a monkey named Coco and a parrot named Squawks. He keeps busy by changing the entrance to his secret hideout. "How can you have a secret entrance when that blasted parrot won't keep his beak shut?"

To relax, Captain Redbeard likes to ski barefoot behind his souped up Renegade Runner. He's working on a barefoot jump he calls the Pirate Plunge.

When visiting the 20th century, he sneaks off to LEGO, West Virginia, with his metal detector and tries to find his favorite hook, which he lost while burying some treasure.

Captain Redbeard

Favorite book: Treasure Island
 Favorite hobby: Coin collecting
 Favorite movie: Hook
 Favorite cartoon character: Yosemite Sam

When Jock isn't harvesting hydrolator crystals with the Neptune Discovery Lab's crane, he's running a chain of underwater sub shops that feature kelp burgers, seaweed salad, and plankton pizza.

His favorite sport is octopus wrestling, but he hasn't won yet. "In my last match in Snowflake, Arizona, even with two arms tied behind its back, I still couldn't beat that critter," Jock says. But for Jock, nothing beats strapping on his oxygen tank, fins, and mask and cruising colorful coral reefs.

Jock Clouseau

Favorite food: Kelp burgers
 Favorite TV show: SeaQuest
 Favorite movie: Jaws VI: Return of the Aquasharks
 Favorite song: Under the Sea

"MAJISTO, A DROID?"

by: Beau Christian Hesterberg of Texas

Holiday Magic Brings LEGO Figures to Life!

Enfield, CT- The Holiday season is the most magical time of the year. Magical and mysterious things happen all over the world. Right here at MANIA MAGAZINE, we've been getting reports of LEGO figures coming to life. Just check out these strange but true stories. The figures have even taken over the magazine.

BUILDING A SHUTTLE!

More strange but true stories on pages 5,6 & 7!
(OK, they're not completely true, but they are strange)

One day the heard rumors about a attacking villagers near his castle. The reports said that the attacks came from a fire breathing fortress atop a cliff. So the took his sword Excaliber, and scaled the cliff. He wondered, "How does control the ? I don't believe in sorcery."

Soon the was at the top of the cliff. There he saw ! "Majisto," the called, "your dragon days are over!" waved his wand, and the lunged. The swung his sword Excaliber. The leaped back. The grabbed and shook him. Majisto's clothes and skin ripped off. was a !

The shook his wand, and it sent radio signals. The lunged again. The ducked in between the 's legs, and crawled up his back. The saw something in the 's ear. He took it out. Suddenly the turned upon the and destroyed it. Turning to the , he said, "Thank you. That evil put the ear phones in my ear and drove me crazy. Is there any way I can repay you?" The replied, "Can you take me back to my castle? It's a long hike." THE END

Wow! Pretty intense story, Beau! We can't wait for the sequel.

COOL CREATIONS

AQUAPUS

You can build your own "Aquapus" with pieces found in #6175 Crystal Explorer Sub, #6155 Deep Sea Predator, or with the pieces from your own collection!

Richard Noone, age 8, of Arizona sent us his great idea for the high-speed, multi-armed, crystal seeking Aquapus

Your design could be featured in Cool Creations. Send in your original model-making instructions to:
 LEGO Club, "Cool Creations"
 P.O. Box 1308, Enfield, CT 06083.
 Club members featured will receive a free LEGO set of their choice ($100 value)!

Start out with some pontoons for the base.

Add in a 4x6 plate for the floor of the cockpit.

Power up this rad crystal grabber with a high-powered engine.

Black base piece is found in #6155

Start building the flexible arms of this multi-armed machine.

Attach the magnet and add the utility hooks on the tower for your underwater tools.

Put an Aquashark behind the controls, then take-off on your first mission.

Feature Story

AQUANAUTS SURFACE IN TUB'S SUDS!

Snowflake, AZ • •

Ten-year-old George Bailey watched in amazement as his Neptune Discovery Lab swung into operation in the boy's bath. "I was just putting my foot in the water to see how hot it was when an octopus grabbed my toe. Then the lab lit up and the crane started unloading hydrolator crystals from the Crystal Explorer Sub," explained George.

George ran to get his mother and brother Harry, but when they went into the bathroom, there was nothing unusual happening in the tub. Then, when George climbed into the tub, the lab started up again. "It was real cool looking. The crystals were glowing, the motors humming and then an Aquanaut popped up through the bubbles and winked at me," George said.

TOWN DECORATED BY ELVES FROM SPACE?

Evergreen, AL • • Over the last 12 nights, trees in Evergreen have been mysteriously decorated. Families who put up trees in the evening woke up to find their trees completely decorated. Left by each tree were small footprints.

Those footprints led people to believe that elves using space ships were the culprits... until now. An eye witness, Cindy Lou Dew, said her LEGO space shuttle decorated her family's tree. Little Cindy Lou got up last night to get a glass of water. She heard a noise and went to investigate. "The shuttle blasted off from the launch pad and zoomed to the top of the tree towing a string of lights. Then the astronauts hung a LEGO ornament on the tree's highest branch with the shuttle's special Canadian Arm," Cindy Lou said.

LEGO village grows out of boy's head!

"I was building like mad when it suddenly appeared" said Jeshua. "It does not hurt. But getting my hair cut has become a problem!"

Nope! Little Cindy Lou Says Shuttle Nauts Decorated Her Tree!

Nice slippers!

BOY LIVES IN ... TOY CASTLE!

Big deal!
I've lived here forever!

Rudolph, WI • • Dan Anderson caused quite a stir in history class when he returned from vacation. Dan came to class wearing a cape, helmet and shield. "I'm training to become a Royal Knight." Dan told his teacher. When Dan said he was living in his LEGO Royal Knights Castle, he was sent to the principal's office.

This is Dan's story: "After I took my present up to my room, the Royal King rode over the drawbridge and said, "Squire Dan, follow me for adventure." So I did. It was weird. At first, I didn't think I'd fit. But when I touched the drawbridge, lights flashed, there was smoke, and, poof, I was inside. It's really cool living in a castle. There are secret passages all over, a ghost hangs out in the tower and there is an awesome catapult. The food's a little weird though. I eat most of the stuff - except for the eels. And the best part is the awesome ride back to my bedroom. I just open a trap door and slide down this slick ramp into my room."

... Is it really true?

Pirates Plunder Prize Presents!

King Kahuka screams "Stop Thief"

LEGO, WV • • All over the world, holiday gifts have been disappearing. At the same time, large piles of sand have mysteriously appeared on Skull Island. Coincidence? "I think not," says King Kahuka. "I know for a fact that the pirates have been heisting holiday treasures and hiding them on Skull Island," he said. "They already filled up their secret cave with the big stuff like bikes and catamarans," the Islander King added.

PRINCIPAL

When told about King Kahuka's comments, Captain Red Beard replied, "The king is just mad because he didn't get the new red catamaran with the shields, spears and drum that he asked for. We have that...I mean, oh, you wanted to know about the, ah, sand piles. Well, the crew and I are just building a giant sand castle so we can get in the Guinness Book of Records."

Don't wait for an avalanche to hit before you build this high powered sledding machine.

The SUPER SLED

Start building the chassis with a 2x12 black plate. Be sure to add a 2x2 swivel plate so you can steer this groovy rig.

swivel plate

Add the axles and start building the body. Look carefully at the front axle, it has another 2x2 swivel plate on top of the axle.

A 2x2 hinged swivel plate

Slap on a couple of doors so you don't fall out.

Power up your Super Sled with twin, high speed, jet engines.

Spruce up the winter dragster with some flames, a flag and shield!

Add a grabber arm to dig your way out of trouble.

Attach skis from an Ice Planet set.

Thanks to a little cooperation and a LEGO Maniac's imagination, this SUPER SLED is powered up and ready for adventure!

Build-Your-Own

You can build the Super Sled like the LEGO characters in the comic with pieces from sets like #6044 King's Carriage, #6175 Crystal Explorer Sub, #6268 Renegade Runner, or pieces from your own collection.

TECH TIPS

Hey Maniacs! Make it Move with LEGO TECHNIC!

LEGO TECHNIC sets are special because you build cool moving parts on every model. Build fun features like: springing suspensions, pumping pistons, rotating rotors, working cranes, opening trunks and shifting gears. LEGO TECHNIC models look so real, you'll think they move by themselves. (And parts of them will - when you add the #8720 9-volt Power Pack.) If you were only seven inches tall, you could really move in these high powered vehicles. There are planes, helicopters, motorcycles, race cars, off-roaders and a monster truck.

LEGO MANIAC, Eric Bengfort of Texas, says this about his Rebel Wrecker: "I like the suspension best. You can push on it and it bounces just like a real one would."

Every LEGO TECHNIC set includes instructions to build 2 models.

Eric built the alternate Dune Buggy model!

#8720
Power Pack

PIRATES

6279

SEARCH FOR HIDDEN PIRATE TREASURE!

Why should pirates keep all the loot and have all the fun? Here's your chance to pilfer the pirate plunder hidden on Skull Island. Use the map to find the secret entrance to the pirates' hideout. Then load the gold on to your ship with the crane and sneak away from the dock.

Open the sneaky skull to see what treasure is inside!

"I just like to monkey around with my parrot pal."

Rotate crane to lift loot from sleek sailin' ships!

Make intruders duck with the swiveling cannon on the dock!

Check out the cool offer inside!

6090 ROYAL KNIGHTS CASTLE

CHARGE TO THE ROYAL RESCUE

While guarding the king's castle, you put in a lot of long, hot days, but the knights are really cool. Even though the castle's a big place, you have help protecting it from attack. A spooky ghost glows in the tower (and makes a great knight light) and a skeleton guards the gate.

8 Royal Knights protect the Royal King and his castle!

This classy castle is a Boo-tiful place to live!

Protect your castle with a glowing ghost and secret skeleton!

Spring into action with this cool catapult!

Trip the trap door and see who pops up!

Check out the working drawbridge!

Club Member SCOTTY NEABORE from New York says "The new skeleton is real neat. When guys from my other sets invade the castle, my skeleton scares them away".

AQUAZONE

Scoop up hydrolator crystals with sub's slick grabbing and magnetic arms!

Carry crystals on conveyor with crafty crane...cool!

Comes with 4 crystal-seeking Aquanauts and an octopus!

6195 NEPTUNE DISCOVERY LAB

DIVE INTO AQUAZONE ADVENTURE

You're in control of the heart of the entire undersea crystal operation – the Neptune Discovery Lab! It's up to you and the Aquanauts to find the oxygen giving hydrolator crystals and keep them away from the Aquasharks! And don't forget to keep your eyes open for the octopus swimming nearby!

Ya gotta keep those hydrolator crystals safe or there won't be enough for other LEGO MANIACS like Club member, JEFF COATES of Pennsylvania, who says, "I think the crystals are pretty cool."

I'm armed, but not dangerous.

With this working compass, you'll never get lost!

6339 SHUTTLE LAUNCH PAD

BLAST-OFF INTO GALACTIC EXCITEMENT!

Strap yourself into the shuttle pilot's seat. It's time for lift-off! After a spectacular blast-off, you cruise into outer space. Your mission: fly the shuttle close enough to a damaged satellite so your co-pilot can grab it with the "Canadian arm." And watch your cruising speed. You're orbiting the Earth at over 170,000 miles an hour!

Good thing I've got my reflector helmet on. I'll see 16 sunsets in space today!

Control Panel indicates we're ready for lift-off!

Crank crane to boost booster rockets into position!

LAUNCH COMMAND

If you're a hotshot pilot like club member PETER POPPENS of Wisconsin, flying the shuttle is a snap. Just be careful walking in Peter's room. He says he turns his whole room into space and "launches satellites all over space."

Snag satellites with the shuttle's clever "Canadian arm!"
